

Invitation

Biennial Symposium

'Reproduction in an ageing society'

The aim of the symposium is to bring together both clinicians and researchers in the field of obstetrics and gynaecology, embryology, genetics, developmental biology and reproduction to present the latest findings in this area and discuss the controversies.

The symposium is in English.

Confirmed speakers:

Suzannah A. Williams

Jan Brosens

Sabra Dahhan

Joop Laven

Kate Walker

Ernesto Bosch Aparicio

Oxford University, UK

Warwick Medical School, UK

UMC Utrecht, The Netherlands

Erasmus MC, The Netherlands

University of Nottingham, UK

University of Valencia

Gertrudiskapel (near Utrecht Central Station),
Willemsplantsoen 1c, 3511 LA Utrecht, the Netherlands
Friday, April 19, 2024 09:00 - 17:00

Attending the symposium is free of charge, you can register via: QR-code

Programme De Snoo van 't Hoogerhuijs Symposium

Gertrudiskapel (near Utrecht Central Station),
Willemsplantsoen 1c, 3511 LA Utrecht, the Netherlands
Friday, April 19, 2024
8.30- 16.30

'Reproduction in an ageing society'

The aim of the symposium is to bring together both clinicians and researchers in the fields of obstetrics and gynaecology, embryology, genetics, developmental biology and reproduction to present the latest findings in this area and discuss the controversies.

Speakers:

Professor Suzannah Williams

Nuffield Department Women's & Reproductive Health, University of Oxford, UK

Ovarian insufficiency in an ageing society.

Professor Jan Brosens

WMS-Biomedical Sciences, Warwick Medical School, UK

Organoids of endometrial tissue.

Dr. Sabra Dahhan

Gynaecologist, department of Obstetrics and Gynaecology, UMC Utrecht, The Netherlands

Oocyte freezing to overcome the damage of time: how well will it work?

Professor Joop Laven

Gynaecologist, head of department of reproductive medicine, Erasmus MC, The Netherlands

Can genes be related to oocyte/embryo quality?

Professor Kate Walker

Clinical Professor in Obstetrics, Faculty of Medicine & Health Sciences, University of Nottingham, UK

Induction of labor in women 35 years of age and older: is it justified?

Professor Ernesto Bosch Aparicio

Director IVI Valencia, Valencia, Spain

Endometrial receptivity and age.

ROUTE TO GEERTRUDISKAPEL

From Utrecht Central Station to Geertrudiskapel: Leave the station following "Centrum" and keep right. Take the first right (by Blokker) then straight on past the Albert Heijn supermarket. Take the escalator at the Moreelspark exit. Turn left and cross over the road. On the other side, turn right (the Catherijnesingel) and follow the road for 300m. On the right, you will see a church with two identical towers. Just before the church, is the entrance to the Driehoek congress and meeting centre. Walking time 7minutes.